

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

THE way of the beginner in Latin is too often confined to those subjects in which, aside from memory, the powers of the mind find little chance of development. This fact, with the opinion that in the American schools the study of Latin is usually undertaken so late that every lesson of the first year must be planned with a view to covering an assignment and preparing for the second year work, led me to work out for myself a simple sentence method, adapted to the ability of the average seventh grade pupil. Out of seven years of successful experience with this method has grown this small volume for seventh grade pupils.

The prime object in the preparation of this work is to achieve the utmost simplicity of treatment of subject matter, so as to render it easy to the pupil, thus sparing him the perplexities attendant upon the use of a regular first year Latin text until he is better able to cope with them. Instead of spending long hours from the beginning in endless drill on the rules of grammar, on declensions and conjugations, and on the perplexities of syntax, the pupil is, in his first lesson, introduced to the simple sentence, "Agricola aquam portat," as shown in the model lesson. The development of the translation of this sentence by English derivatives creates in every child an interest and desire to see the very close relation between Latin words and those of the English language, as well as an interest in finding the translation of the sentence. By careful questioning we are always pleasantly surprised at the number of English derivatives that the small seventh grade pupil can name. We also find that he shows much interest in the three possible English translations of the sentence, in the Latin word order, in the omission of the article in Latin, etc.

After a thorough discussion of the above Latin sentence and the use of the most common English derivatives in sentences, the terms, subject and nominative case, are discussed in Lesson I. The use and the terminations in the singular and plural of the nominative case are given. Other sentences are used to show that the endings are "a" in the singular and "ae" in the plural.

In like manner the most common use and the terminations of the accusative, genitive, dative, and ablative cases are studied and learned, new words, mostly Cæsarean, being introduced in each new sentence, up to Lesson IX, when the pupil is able to form for himself the paradigm for first declension nouns. Further application of the first declension forms is then made by exercises from Latin into English and vice versa.

Nouns of the second declension, masculine and neuter, adjectives of the first and second declensions, first conjugation verbs, active and passive, second conjugation verbs, active, and the simplest and most common constructions of the various cases are very similarly treated. The book affords much drill for the application of all new phases of the work as they are presented.

Review lessons are frequent. They embrace vocabularies, derivatives, and constructions. Many of these lessons contain Latin sentences using the different constructions studied during a certain period of time.

Short reading lessons and conversational exercises occur frequently in the latter part of the text to arouse interest and to prepare the pupil for his later connected reading of the language.

Following the eighty-six lessons there are a few pages of abbreviations from the Latin, Latin phrases common in English, easy fables, poems, etc., to be used at the teacher's discretion during the year.

Thus the pupil thoroughly familiarizes himself with a working vocabulary of about 175 words and with the use of approximately 700 English derivatives — which makes the work alive and interesting to him. He also lays for himself a sure foundation of a limited number of forms and fundamental constructions.

HENRY S. LUPOLD.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS

IN the belief that pronunciation is best learned directly from the teacher, the use of the material on that subject at the beginning of the text is left to the discretion of the teacher.

In connection with the earlier lessons on the development of the cases, etc., it is desirable that much time be spent in oral work and in the correlation of English and Latin grammar.

Throughout the entire course it is very desirable and profitable to develop the meaning of the new Latin words by English derivatives, to obtain as many common derivatives as possible from each new word, to understand their meaning, and to use all the most common ones in good English sentences. Such work serves to relate the study of Latin more closely to the pupil's study of English, and so makes clear the great importance of the Latin element in the English language.

It is profitable and quite necessary that particular attention be given to the review lessons as they occur in the book.

Instead of the usual arrangement of lessons which must be divided into two or three assignments, this text provides short lessons which can usually be covered in a single assignment. The rate of progress through the book must, of course, be determined by the ability and aptitude of the class. It is found that with pupils of the seventh grade much supervised study is very advantageous, and also insures economy of time.

In conclusion, to those who are for the first time teaching Latin to the young beginners of the seventh grade, permit me to say that it is very easy for the adult to overestimate the ability of these young pupils and to underestimate the difficulties under which they struggle. Assume that they know no English grammar, present the work very slowly at first, repeat many times, and be patient with their crude mistakes.

THE VALUE OF LATIN

LATIN, the language of the ancient Romans, derived its name from the Latini, who first spoke it. Later it was the chief language of the vast Roman Empire.

The Latin language, however, extends much further than the Roman Empire. Physicians, lawyers, clergymen, scientists, and scholars in general continue to study it, for many Latin terms are used in medicine, law, and the sciences.

The study of Latin is valuable in business life. Since the majority of the words of the English language are of Latin origin, either directly or indirectly through the French language, it gives one a larger English vocabulary. Furthermore, accuracy and training in the careful choice of words are gained through the experience of translation.

The study of Latin is of further importance to us, since the greatest works of English literature have been written by men who knew Latin. These works cannot easily be understood without a knowledge of that language, as they contain many famous Latin quotations, phrases, and even passages of great length.

Another important reason for the study of Latin is that the Romance languages — Italian, French, Spanish, and Portuguese — are modern forms of it. If one knows Latin, he has the foundation of all these other languages and can easily learn any one of them. This is of direct concern to us, since these languages are spoken in most parts of South America and Mexico, and in some parts of Canada and the United States.

In these and other ways Latin is of great practical value in English and is closely connected with everyday life, so that anyone who wishes to become in the best sense efficient and intelligent cannot disregard the study of this language.

INTRODUCTION TO LATIN

ALPHABET

1. Latin has no w or j.
2. The vowels are the letters a e i o u and sometimes y. All other letters are consonants.
3. I is used both as a vowel and as a consonant. It is a consonant when it stands before a vowel in the same syllable.

SOUNDS OF THE LETTERS

Vowels

(Long)	(Short)
ā as in father	a like the first a in aha
ē as in prey	e as in step
ī as in machine	i as in pin
ō as in old	o as in obey
ū as oo in moon	u as oo in foot

Diphthongs

Diphthongs are combinations of two vowels that are pronounced as one sound.

ae like ai in aisle
oe like oi in coin
au like ou in house
ui is almost like we eu as in feud
ei as in eight

Consonants

Consonants have the same value as in English except that c and g are always hard, as in come and give.

i consonant is like y in yes.

t is always like t in time.

v is like English w as in wood.

s is always like s in sun.

u followed by a vowel and after q, g, and sometimes s, is pronounced like Latin v.

x is like ks or the x in extra.

bs and bt are pronounced as ps and pt.

In ch, ph, and th the h is silent.

SYLLABLES

1. Every Latin word has as many syllables as it has vowels and diphthongs; thus ae-di'-fi-cō has four syllables, ca'-sa, two.

2. When a word is divided into syllables, a single consonant is joined with the vowel following: a-mī'-cus.

3. If two or more consonants occur between vowels or diphthongs, the first consonant is put with the preceding vowel: lau-dan'-tur. But a consonant followed by l or r usually goes with the l or r: a-gri'-co-la, pū'-bli-cus.

4. Doubled consonants are separated: pu-el'-la.

5. The last syllable of a word is called the ultima. The next to the last, the penult; the one before the penult, the antepenult.

QUANTITY

1. Vowels are long (—) or short (˘). The long vowels are marked in this book; unmarked vowels must be considered short. Diphthongs are long and not marked.

2. A vowel is short before another vowel or h: fī'-lī-a; nī'-hīl.

3. A vowel is short before a final m or t, before nd or nt, and before final l or r in words of more than one syllable: lau-dā'-bām, pa-rā'-bāt, a-măn'-dus, por-tăn'-tur, a'-ni-măl.

4. Vowels are long before nf, ns, nx, and nct: in-fir'-mus, in'-su-la, săn'-xī, fūnc'-tus.

5. Syllables as well as vowels are either long or short.

6. A long syllable is one which contains a long vowel or diphthong, or one whose vowel is followed by two or more consonants (except when one consonant is followed by l or r): nā-tū'-ra, nau'-ta, vo-can'-tur.

7. A syllable is short, if it ends in a short vowel: dō'-mī-na. But in the final syllable of a word the short vowel may be followed by a final consonant: dō'-mī-nām.

ACCENT

1. Words of two syllables accent the first, or penult: fā'-ma, tu'-ba.

2. Words of more than two syllables accent the penult when it is long, otherwise the antepenult: ha-bi-tā'-re, do'-mi-na.

3. The syllables que, and; -ve, or; and -ne, the sign of a question, called enclitics, are attached to the ends of words. The syllable before an enclitic is always accented: nār-rat'-que, vo-cant'-ve, pro-pe-rat'-ne.

MODEL LESSON

DEVELOPMENT OF TRANSLATION BY DERIVATIVES

Agricola aquam portat

1. What English words does agricola suggest? Can you give an English word containing the agric of agricola? AGRICULTURE, AGRICULTURIST, etc. Who is an agriculturist? What is the word used more commonly than agriculturist? FARMER. Agricola means farmer, the farmer, or a farmer.

2. What English words does aquam suggest? Can you give an English word containing the aqua of aquam? AQUARIUM. What is an "aquarium"? It was named "aquarium" from the Latin word aqua, which means water.

3. Can you give English words from portat? Words with port in them? EXPORT, IMPORT, TRANSPORT, etc. What is the meaning of "export"? To carry out of. Ex is the Latin meaning out of or from. Port means carry.

4. What is the translation of the sentence into English? The (or a) farmer carries water. In what other ways may we translate the sentence? The (or a) farmer is carrying water. The (or a) farmer does carry water. Do all these translations denote the same time? They do. Portat means carries, is carrying, or does carry. Every Latin verb in present time has the three translations.

5. How many words are there in the Latin sentence? How many in the English translation? What is omitted in the Latin? There is no article in Latin. Agricola may mean farmer, the farmer, or a farmer.

6. What part of the sentence is agricola or farmer?
The subject.

7. Aquam or water? The receiver of the action of the verb is called the direct object. Notice the ending of the subject; of the direct object.

8. What are the English derivatives from agricola?
Agriculture, agriculturist, agricultural.

From aquam? Aquarium, aquatic, aqueduct, aqueous, terraqueous, subaqueous, etc.

From portat? Port, portable, portableness, portly, portal, porter, portage, portcullis, port-folio, portico, port-manteau, export', ex'port, exportable, exportation, exported, exporting, exporter, import', im'port, importable, importation, importer, imported, importing, important, importantly, importance, deport, deported, deportation, deporter, department, deportable, comport', com'port, comfortable, compartment, report', reporter, reported, reporting, reportable, support', supportable, supported, supporter, supportless, transport', trans'port, transported, transportable, transporter, transportation, unportable, unimportant, unsupportable, unsupported, unexportable, unimportable, unreportable, untransportable, unreported, unexported, unimported, untransported, pur'port, purporting, purported, re-export, re-exported, re-exportation, re-import, re-importation, re-imported, misreport, misreported, misreporting, insupportable, etc., etc.

9. Discuss meanings of the more common derivatives and have the pupils use them in good English sentences.

10. Teach the prefixes used in the above words; as, comport, to carry together; (com-port) deport, to carry down or from; (de-port) export, to carry out; (ex-port) import, to carry in; (im-port) report, to carry back; (re-port) transport, to carry across; (trans-port) support, to carry under, to carry up under; (sub-port) unportable, not portable, not capable of being carried; (un-portable)
re-export, to carry out again; (re-ex-port) misreport, to report wrong; (mis-re-port)
11. Teach new prefixes as they are used in the work.

AGRICOLA ARAT

LESSON I

NOMINATIVE CASE

Agricola aquam portat.

The farmer carries water.

The farmer is carrying water.

The farmer does carry water.

A farmer carries water, etc.

Agricolae aquam portant.

The farmers carry water.

The farmers are carrying water.

The farmers do carry water.

Nauta tubam portat.

The sailor carries a trumpet, etc.

Nautae tubam portant.

The sailors carry a trumpet, etc.

Nauta lūnam spectat.

The sailor looks at the moon.

Nautae lūnam spectant.

The sailors look at the moon.

RULES

The subject of the finite verb is in the nominative case.

When the nominative singular ends in a, the nominative plural is formed by changing the a to ae (pronounced like ai in aisle).

DERIVATIVES

Develop as many as possible common English derivatives from each new Latin word. Discuss their meanings and have the most common ones used in sentences.

From spectat: expect, expectation, expectant, expecter, expected, expecting, expectancy, inspect, inspection, inspector, perspective, respect, respectable, respectability, respectful, suspect, circumspect, retrospect, aspect, unexpectedly, spectator, speculation, spectacle, specimen, etc.

SCHOLA ROMANA

LESSON II

AGREEMENT OF VERB

Agricola aquam portat.	The (or a) farmer carries water, etc.
Agricolae aquam portant.	The farmers carry water, etc.
Nauta lūnam spectat.	The sailor looks at the moon.
Nautae lūnam spectant.	The sailors look at the moon.
Nauta victōriam reportat.	The sailor reports the victory.
Nautae victōriam reportant.	The sailors report the victory.

RULES

A verb agrees with its subject in person and number.
The ending t in the third person singular becomes nt in the third person plural.

NAVIS ET NAUTAE

LESSON III

ACCUSATIVE CASE

Agricola aquam portat.

Agricola fābulam nārrat.

Agricolae fābulās nārrant.

Rēgīna patriam amat.

Rēgīnae patriās amant.

Domina fīliam vocat.

Dominae filiās vocant.

Fīlia pīctūram laudat.

Fīliae pīctūrās laudant.

Sagitta agricolam vulnerat.

Sagittae agricolās vulnerant.

The farmer tells the story, etc.

The farmers tell stories, etc.

The queen loves her fatherland.

Queens love their fatherlands.

The lady calls her daughter.

The ladies call their daughters.

Her daughters praise the pictures.

The arrow wounds the farmer.

The arrows wound the farmers.

RULES

The direct object in Latin is in the accusative case.

When the accusative singular ends in am, the accusative plural is formed by changing the am to ās.

NOTES. — The normal Latin word order is subject, direct object, verb.

Notice that the possessive adjectives, her, etc., may be put into the English, when they improve the translation.

LESSON IV

GENITIVE CASE

Fīlia agricolae aquam portat.	The farmer's daughter carries water.
	The daughter of the farmer carries water, etc.
Fīliae agricolārum fābulās nārrant.	The farmers' daughters tell stories.
	The daughters of the farmers tell stories.
Incolae insulae servās vocant.
Fīlia dominae pīctūrās laudat.
Agricolae nātūram terrae laudant.
Domina amīcitiām puellārum laudat.
Rēgīna patriām agricolae amat.
Puellae victōriām agricolārum nūntiant.
Poētae patriām rēgīnae laudant.

RULES

Possession in Latin is denoted by the genitive case.

When the genitive singular ends in ae, the genitive plural is formed by changing the ae to ārum.

NOTES. — Notice that the English 's = ae and s' = ārum.

The genitive is often translated by a prepositional phrase introduced by of.

The genitive usually stands after the noun it limits.

SUGGESTION. — Change forms in sentences for variety in drill, as from singular to plural, and vice versa. For example :

Puellae victōriam agricolārum nūntiant.

Puella victōriam agricolārum nūntiat.

Puella victōriās agricolārum nūntiat.

Puella victōriās agricolae nūntiat.

Puellae victōriās agricolārum nūntiant.

Puellae victōriam agricolae nūntiant.

Puella victōriam agricolae nūntiat.

Puellae victōriās agricolae nūntiant.

ROMAN WRITING MATERIALS

LESSON V

DATIVE CASE

Agricola dominae fābulam nārrat. The farmer tells the lady a story.

The farmer tells a story to the lady, etc.

Agricolae dominis fābulās nārrant. The farmers tell the ladies stories.

The farmers tell stories to the ladies.

Nauta filiae lūnam dēmōnstrat.

Puellae dominis cūrās nārrant.

Rēgīna Belgis cēnam parat.

Filiae agricolae cēnam parant.

Dominae puellis fābulās poētae nārrant.

Filiae poētārum agricolis cēnam parant.

RULES

The indirect object in Latin is expressed by the dative case.

The indirect object states to or for whom something is done.

When the dative singular ends in ae, the dative plural is formed by changing the ae to is.

NOTE. — In Latin the indirect object generally stands before the direct object.

LESSON VI

ABLATIVE CASE

Agricola in insulā habitat. The farmer lives on the island, etc.

A farmer lives on an island, etc.

Agricolae in insulis habitant. The farmers live on the islands.

Columbae in silvā volant.

Nautae in insulis habitant.

Est¹ aqua in insulā.

Sunt columbae in silvis.

Nautae in insulā sunt.

Tuba in agricolae casā est.

Est tuba in agricolae casā.

Nautae et agricolae in terrā Italiae habitant.

RULES

Place in or on which is expressed by the Latin preposition in with the ablative case.

When the ablative singular ends in ā, the ablative plural is formed by changing the ā to is.

NOTES. — Notice that the dative and ablative plural have the same ending is.

A vowel before ns is long, as the i in insulā.

¹ Est, beginning a declarative sentence, there is; sunt, there are.

Nauta cum agricolā habitat. The sailor lives with a farmer.

Nautae cum agricolis habitant. The sailors live with the farmers.

Dominae cum puellis nautās cūrant.

Nauta cum agricolis pūgnat.

Domina cum filiā poētae habitat.

Rēgīna cum puellis servās vocat.

Nautae cum feris pūgnant.

Agricola cum filiā in casā habitat.

RULES

Accompaniment (association with) is expressed by the ablative case with the preposition cum (with).

This is called the ablative of accompaniment.

LESSON IX

FIRST DECLENSION

From the preceding work it is seen that there are five cases in Latin: the nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, and ablative.

With these cases the following form for the declension of Latin nouns ending in a is made.

SINGULAR
Case	Use	Terminations
Nominative	Subject	a
Genitive	Possession	ae
Dative	Indirect Object	ae
Accusative	Direct Object	am
Ablative	Place, Accompaniment, etc.	ā
PLURAL
Nominative	Subject	ae
Genitive	Possession	ārum
Dative	Indirect Object	is
Accusative	Direct Object	ās
Ablative	Place, Accompaniment, etc.	is

Comparison between English and Latin Cases

English Case	Latin Case
Nominative	Nominative
Possessive	Genitive
Objective with to or for	Dative
Objective — direct object	Accusative
Objective with by, in, with, from, etc.	Ablative

SINGULAR

Nominative	agricola	a or the farmer
Genitive	agricolae	of a farmer, or farmer's
Dative	agricolae	to or for a farmer
Accusative	agricolam	a farmer
Ablative	agricolā	by or with a farmer

PLURAL

Nominative	agricolae	the farmers
Genitive	agricolārum	of the farmers or farmers'
Dative	agricolīs	to or for the farmers
Accusative	agricolās	the farmers
Ablative	agricolīs	by or with the farmers

This is called the first or A Declension. Nouns of this declension are feminine, except a few which denote males ; as agricola, farmer ; nauta, sailor.

The base is that part of a word which remains unchanged in inflection, as agricol in agricola.

Decline like agricola :

1. Īnsula. 2. Domina. 3. Fābula. 4. Silva.
5. Aqua.

Give English words suggested by each of these Latin words.

Decline like agricola :

1. Fera. 2. Nauta. 3. Puella. 4. Poēta.
5. Rēgīna.

Give the English translation of each form in the above declensions.

EXERCISES

Pronounce, give case and number, and translate each form in all the possible ways :

1. Dominārum. 2. Īnsulae. 3. Agricolās.
 4. Poētae. 5. Silvīs. 6. Fābulā. 7. Dominae.
 8. Aquam. 9. Agricolīs. 10. Silvārum.

Write the Latin for the following :

1. For the farmers. 2. On the island. 3. The water (accusative). 4. Lady's. 5. The stories (accusative). 6. In the forest. 7. With the farmer. 8. Of the islands. 9. For the lady.

LESSON XI

PREDICATE ADJECTIVE

Porta est lāta.	The gate is wide.
Porta est alta.	The gate is high.
Porta est pulchra.	The gate is beautiful.
Porta est magna.	The gate is large.
Porta est alba.	The gate is white.
Porta est lāta et alta.	The gate is wide and high.
Portae sunt pulchrae.	The gates are beautiful.
Portae sunt magnae.	The gates are large.
Portae sunt lātae et altae.	The gates are wide and high.
Vita in insulā est grāta.	Life on an island is agreeable.
Silva prōvinciae est dēnsa.	The forest of the province is dense.

RULES

A predicate adjective is an adjective that stands in the predicate and refers back to the subject.

A predicate adjective agrees with the subject in gender, number, and case.

Any form of the verb be takes the same case after it as before it.

NOTE. — In English the predicate adjective is often called the attribute complement.

LESSON XII

ADJECTIVES (Continued)

Porta alba est alta.	The white gate is high.
Porta magna est pulchra.	The large gate is beautiful.
Porta alta et lata est alba.	The high wide gate is white.
Portae albae sunt pulchrae.	The white gates are beautiful.
Portae magnae sunt albae.	The large gates are white.
Portae latae et altae sunt albae.	The wide high gates are white.

RULE

An adjective directly modifying a noun agrees with it in gender, number, and case.

From the above sentences we may form the following declension.

	SINGULAR		PLURAL
Nom.	porta lata	Nom.	portae latae
Gen.	portae latae	Gen.	portarum latarum
Dat.	portae latae	Dat.	portis latis

LESSON XV

VERBS

In Latin the person of a verb is shown by its ending, which is called the personal ending.

The following are the regular personal endings of the active voice :

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
First person	-ō or m, I	-mus, we
Second person	-s, thou, you	-tis, you, ye
Third person	-t, he, she, it	-nt, they

To form the present indicative add the personal endings to the present stem of the verb.

NOTES. — In the first person singular the ā of the stem is dropped before ō. In the third persons the a becomes short before -t and -nt. A vowel is always short before nt or final t.

To find the present stem of a verb drop the re from the present active infinitive. Portāre is the present active infinitive, to carry. Portā is the present stem.

If the present infinitive ends in -āre, the verb is of the first conjugation.

Present Active Indicative

SINGULAR

1. por'tō, I carry, am carrying, do carry.
2. por'tās, you carry, are carrying, do carry.
3. por'tat, he, she, or it carries, is carrying, does carry.

PLURAL

Ōlim (once upon a time) equus in silvam dēnsam errābat (wandered). In silvā erant ferae multae et māgnae. Equus timidus māgnō in perīculō erat, sed Mārcus equum liberābat.

LESSON XLIII

PASSIVE VOICE

The rules for forming the present, imperfect, and future indicative in the passive voice are the same as in the active voice, the passive personal endings taking the place of the active ones.

The personal endings in the passive voice are :

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
First person	-r	-mur
Second person	-ris (re)	-mini
Third person	-tur	-ntur

Present Indicative

SINGULAR

1. por'tor, I am carried
2. portâr'is or portâ're, you are carried
3. portâ'tur, he, she, or it is carried

PLURAL

1. portâ'mur, we are carried
2. portâ'mini, you are carried
3. portan'tur, they are carried

Imperfect Indicative

SINGULAR

1. portâ'bar, I was carried
2. portâbâ'ris (re), you were carried
3. portâbâ'tur, he, she, or it was carried

PLURAL

1. portābā'mur, we were carried
2. portābā'minī, you were carried
3. portāban'tur, they were carried

Future Indicative

SINGULAR

1. portā'bor, I shall be carried
2. portā'beris (re), you will be carried
3. portā'bitur, he, she, or it will be carried

PLURAL

1. portā'bimur, we shall be carried
2. portābi'minī, you will be carried
3. portābun'tur, they will be carried

NOTES. — Note the change in the vowel of the tense sign in the first and second persons in the singular, and in the third person in the plural of the future passive.

A vowel before the final -r in words of more than one syllable is short, as in portābor.

Compare very carefully the English translation of the active and passive in each tense.

LESSON XLVII

ABLATIVE OF PERSONAL AGENT

RULE

The personal agent with a passive verb is expressed by the ablative with ā or ab.

NOTES. — In this construction the English translation of ā, ab is by. This ablative is used with passive verbs to indicate the person by whom an act is performed.

Ā is used only before words beginning with a consonant; ab is used before either vowels or consonants.

LESSON XLIX

PRINCIPAL PARTS OF VERBS

The principal parts of a Latin verb are :

The first person singular of the present active indicative.

The present active infinitive.

The first person singular of the perfect active indicative, and the perfect passive participle.

These are called the principal parts because when they are known all forms of the verb may readily be found.

Pres. Ind.	Pres. Inf.	Perf. Ind.	Perf. Part.
portō	portāre	portāvī	portātus

The fixed parts of a verb, to which the different endings are added, are called stems. Every regular verb has three stems: present, perfect, and participial, corresponding to its principal parts.

To find the present stem of a verb drop -re from the present active infinitive: portāre; stem, portā-.

To find the perfect stem, drop -ī from the perfect indicative active: portāvī; stem, portāv-.

To find the participial stem drop -us from the perfect passive participle: portātus; stem, portāt-.

Verbs whose present stems end in ā are said to be of the first conjugation. In the first conjugation the first person of the perfect indicative active (the third part of the verb) is regularly formed by adding -vī to the present stem.

The perfect passive participle (the fourth part of the verb) is regularly formed by adding -tus to the present stem.

EXERCISES

Give the principal parts of :

Nārrō, laudō, amō, occupō, and pūgnō.

Write the three stems of each of the above verbs.

A VESTAL VIRGIN

LESSON L

PERFECT TENSES

To find the perfect stem, drop -ī from the perfect indicative active.

The perfect (the English past and present perfect), the pluperfect (the English past perfect), and the future perfect indicative active are formed from the perfect stem.

The perfect indicative active has its own characteristic personal endings.

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
First person	-ī	-imus
Second person	-istī	-istis
Third person	-it	-ērunt (-ēre)

The perfect tense is formed from the perfect stem plus the perfect personal endings.

The perfect indicative represents an action as completed at the present time, or it may simply represent something that happened in the past.

Servī ab agricolā bonō laudantur.

SINGULAR

Nom.	agricola bonus
Gen.	agricolae bonī
Dat.	agricolae bonō
Acc.	agricolam bonum
Abl.	agricolā bonō

Agricolae bonī patriam amant.

Dōna agricolārum bonōrum māgna sunt.

Puellae agricolīs bonīs fābulās nārrant.

Poēta agricolās bonōs laudat.

Pīrātae cum agricolīs bonīs nōn habitant.

PLURAL

Nom.	agricolae bonī
Gen.	agricolārum bonōrum
Dat.	agricolīs bonīs
Acc.	agricolās bonōs
Abl.	agricolīs bonīs

When an adjective is used with a noun, it must show by its ending the same gender, number, and case. A masculine noun of the first declension takes a masculine adjective, which has the endings of the second declension.

VOCABULARY

Galba, -ae, m., Galba.

pīrāta, -ae, m., pirate.

poēta, -ae, m., poet.

Decline :

1. Pīrāta malus.

2. Poēta clārus.

Write the Latin for the following :

1. Faithful sailor's.
2. With the wicked sailor.
3. Worthy poets (accusative).
4. Of the good farmers.
5. For the unfriendly pirate.

LESSON LXXII

NOUNS IN -IUS AND -IUM. VOCATIVE CASE

Nouns of the second declension in -ius and -ium end in -ī in the genitive singular, not in -ii: filius, gen., fili; praesidium, gen., praesi'di. These shortened genitive forms are accented on the syllable before the last, even if short. Adjectives are not thus contracted.

Filius, m., son.
Base, fili-.

Praesidium, n., garrison.
Base, praesidi-.

SINGULAR

Nom.	filius	praesidium
Gen.	fili	praesidi
Dat.	filiō	praesidiō
Acc.	filium	praesidium
Abl.	filiō	praesidiō

The plural is regular. Note that the -i of the base is lost only in the genitive singular.

VOCABULARY

aedificium, aedifi'ci, n., building, edifice.

filius, fili, m., son.

nūntius, nūnti, m., messenger.

praesidium, praesi'di, n., garrison, guard.

proelium, proeli, n., battle.

Decline :

1. Nūntius fīdus.

2. Proelium longum.

The vocative is the case of direct address. In Latin it is regularly like the nominative. The following are the exceptions:

1. Nouns of the second declension ending in -us like dominus have the vocative singular in -e, as domine, O Master!

2. Proper nouns ending in -ius and also the common noun filius form the vocative singular in the same manner as the genitive singular; hence, Vergi'li and fili may be either genitive singular or vocative singular.

POEMS

MICĀ, MICĀ, PARVA STELLA!

Micā, micā, parva stella!
Miror quaenam sis, tam bella!
Splendēns ēminus in illō,
Alba velut gemma, caelō.

Quandō fervēns Sōl discessit,
Nec calōre prāta pāscit,
Mox ostendis lūmen pūrum,
Micāns, micāns per obscurum.

Tibi, noctū quī vagātur,
Ob scintillulam grātātur;
Nī micārēs tū, nōn scīret
Quās per viās errāns īret.

Meum saepe thalamum lūce
Speculāris cūriōsā;
Neque carpseris sopōrem
Dōnec vēnit Sōl per auram.

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR

Twinkle, twinkle, little star ;
How I wonder what you are !
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky.

When the blazing sun is gone,
When he nothing shines upon,
Then you show your little light,
Twinkle, twinkle, all the night.

Then the traveler in the dark,
Thanks you for your tiny spark ;
He could not tell which way to go
If you did not twinkle so.

In the dark blue sky you keep,
And often through my curtains peep ;
For you never shut your eye
Till the sun is in the sky.

AMERICA

Tē canō, Patria,
Candida libera ;
Tē refert
Portus et exulum
Et tumulus senum
Libera montium
Vōx resonet.

Sit modulātiō !
 Libera nātiō
 Dulce canat !
 Labra vigentia
 Ora faventia
 Saxa silentia
 Vōx repleat.

Tūtor es ūnicus
 Ūnus avum deus
 Laudō liberīs !
 Patria luceat
 Lībera fulgeat
 Vīs tua mūniat Omnipotēns.

THE SHEPHERD PSALM

Dominus regit mē, et nihil mihi deerit.
 In locō pascuae ibi mē conlocāvit.
 Super aquam refectiōnis ēdūcāvit mē.
 Animam meam convertit. Dēdūxit mē
 Super sēmitās iūstītiaē, propter nōmen suum.
 Nam, et sī ambulāverō in mediō umbrae mortis,
 Nōn timēbō mala, quoniam tū mēcum es.
 Virga tua et baculus tuus, ipsa mē cōnsōlāta sunt.
 Parāstī in cōnspectū meō mēnsam,
 Adversus eōs quī tribulant mē.
 Impinguāstī in oleō caput meum.

Et calix meus inēbriāns quam praeclārus est !
Et misericordia tua subsequētur mē
Omnibus diēbus vītae mēae, et ut inhabitem
In domō Domini in longitūdinem diērum.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Pater noster, quī es in caelīs ; sāctificētur nōmen tuum. Adveniat rēgnum tuum. Fīat voluntās tua, sicut in caelō et in terrā. Panem nostrum dā nōbīs hodiē. Et dīmīttite nōbīs dēbita nostra, sicut et nōs dīmīttimus dēbitōribus nostrīs. Et nē nōs indūcās in tentātiōnem, sed liberā nōs ā malō ; namque tua sunt rēgnum, potentia et glōria, in aeterna. Amen !
